Research Work of PRCCSF:

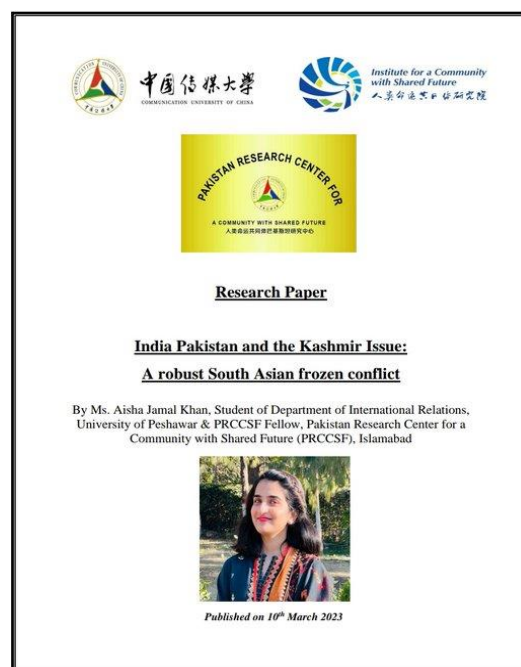

1. India Pakistan and the Kashmir Issue: A robust South Asian frozen conflict

Published on 10th March 2023

Website link:

<https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/India-Pakistan-and-the-Kashmir-Issue.pdf>

This paper highlights the Kashmir dispute and the conflict between Pakistan and India under the influence of external factors and possible measures to resolve the frozen conflict. Despite its strategic and political significance, Pakistan and India both claim Kashmir for cultural and social reasons. Kashmir has become ingrained in the minds of both Indians and Pakistanis as one major issue facing the Indian subcontinent.

Strategies and negotiations that ignore that fact will fail, as evidenced by 73 years of unrelenting violence in Kashmir.

2. China believes in Friendly Foreign Policy

Published on 14th March 2023

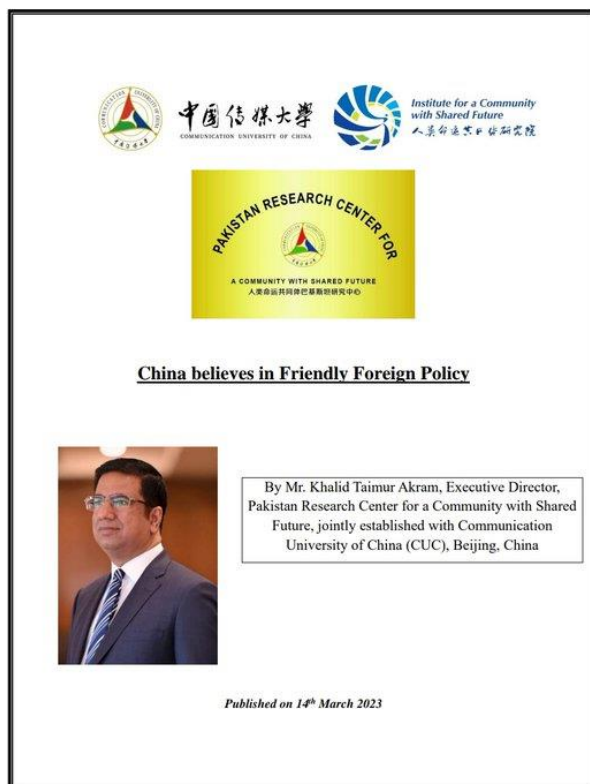

Website link: <https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/China-believes-in-Friendly-Foreign-Policy.pdf>

China has taken a leadership role in global efforts to address climate change to bolster its cooperation. In 2020, China pledged to reach carbon neutrality by 2060 and to peak its carbon emissions before 2030.

Overall, China has actively supported other countries' efforts to address climate change, particularly in developing countries. China has established cordial ties with many countries worldwide through diplomacy, trade, and other forms of cooperation.

Overall, China's relationships with other countries are friendly and can be enhanced through several factors, such as political ideology, economic cooperation, and geopolitical considerations. China has had a growing network of friends, made more and more new friends, and strengthened ties with old ones.
