Understanding the Impact of Fake News on Society: Training Session of Lahore College for Women University (LCWU) Fellows

6 November 2024

On 6th November 2024, as part of a joint fellowship program, Dr. Hina Shahid, Head of the Department of Media Studies at Foundation University Islamabad, led an engaging and interactive training session focused on how fake news spreads through social media, its effects on society, and how to distinguish between fake and authentic information.

During the session, Dr. Hina shared valuable insights on the implications of misinformation. Ms. Isha Fatima warmly welcomed Dr. Hina Shahid, while Dr. Kalsoom Hanif, Coordinator for the Student Fellowship Initiative, expressed immense gratitude for her expertise and the valuable information shared. Dr. Hina provided practical examples and case studies that illustrated the real-world consequences of fake news, encouraging participants to think critically about their online consumption. She underscored the role of social media platforms in propagating misinformation and urged students to become proactive in verifying information before sharing it. The session not only equipped students with essential tools for navigating the complex media landscape but also inspired them to become responsible digital citizens.

The training session concluded with an interactive question and answer segment, during which students actively participated, shared their viewpoints, and posed questions to Dr. Hina. Ms. Isha expressed appreciation to Dr. Hina Shahid for her valuable time and the insightful session. Currently, about 30 Master's and Bachelor's level students are participating in this fellowship program.

Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram participated as a speaker at the One-day National Seminar on “The Role of Youth in Nation-Building: In Light of Iqbal’s Vision” organized by National Language Promotion Department at Islamabad

7 November 2024

On 07 November 2024, National Language Promotion Department, Islamabad hosted a one-day national seminar, “The Role of Youth in Nation-Building: Illuminated by Iqbal’s Vision,” unfolded with an inspiring call to action for Pakistan’s young generation. Presiding over the seminar, distinguished intellectual and senator, Professor Mushahid Hussain Syed, passionately addressed the attendees, urging youth to look to Iqbal’s vision as their guiding light for building a progressive, sovereign Pakistan. Special guests included esteemed Professor Dr. Fateh Muhammad Malik, Professor Qaisra Alvi, and renowned international expert Khalid Taimur Akram, with Dr. Rashid Hameed, Executive Director of the National Language Promotion Department who welcomed all the guests and delivered a warm welcome. Dr. Hina Shahid moderated the event, and Sanullah Kunjahi mesmerized the audience with a captivating recitation of Iqbal’s poetry. The seminar began with a soul-stirring recitation of the Holy Quran by Hafiz Muhammad Inam-ul-Haq, setting a reflective tone for the event.

Dr. Arshad Mahmood Nashad, Dr. Sher Ali, Dr. Abid Siyal, Dr. Zeenat Afshan and Dr. Rabia Kiyani discussed their analysis.

In his keynote address, Senator Syed underscored a deep, personal connection to Iqbal's teachings, a legacy inherited from his parents, who held a profound reverence for Iqbal's philosophy. Reflecting on Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah's own respect for Iqbal, Syed quoted Jinnah's words that if he had to choose between the state and Iqbal, he would choose Iqbal. This sentiment, he noted, is an enduring reminder for today's generation: progress can only be achieved when a nation honors its cultural heritage, language, and values. He called upon the youth to draw inspiration from Iqbal and Quaid-e-Azam, whose visionary courage shaped Pakistan, urging them to protect this legacy and drive Pakistan forward. Professor Dr. Fateh Muhammad Malik, addressing the audience, shared that Iqbal's primary focus was always on the youth — the torchbearers of tomorrow. He stressed that regardless of their ideological backgrounds, the youth must come together in the spirit of national unity to uplift the country, a mission that Iqbal envisioned for his homeland. He also commended Iqbal's advocacy for making both Urdu and Persian the unifying languages of the nation, connecting Pakistan to a broader cultural tapestry.

Renowned international expert Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram expanded on this message, emphasizing the need to prepare and empower young Pakistanis for the future. Highlighting the strength of social media as a platform, he encouraged the youth to wield it positively, building bridges rather than walls. He asserted that by embracing Iqbal's teachings, Pakistan's relations with Central Asia could flourish, strengthening both cultural and strategic ties. Dr. Arshad Mahmood Nashad also delivered an in-depth discourse on the philosophy of Iqbal and his concept of the "Iron Man." Dr. Sher Ali's address reminded the attendees of the timeless wisdom woven into Iqbal's poetry, which holds solutions to humanity's greatest challenges. Dr. Abid Siyal spoke of Iqbal's message of unity and brotherhood, a message he shared alongside Quaid-e-Azam, to stir the nation from complacency toward progress. Dr. Rabia Kayani recited some persian poetry of Allama Iqbal with explanation in Urdu, Dr. Zeenat Afshan reflected on how the vision of Iqbal and Jinnah offered a roadmap for Pakistan's success, if only the youth would heed it with dedication and resolve. Concluding the seminar, Director General Professor Dr. Muhammad Saleem Mazhar expressed heartfelt thanks to all participants for their insightful contributions. He honored Quaid-e-Azam and Allama Iqbal as the architects of Pakistan's identity, two exemplary leaders who stayed true to law and integrity in their quest to shape an independent nation. Dr. Mazhar encouraged today's youth to embody Iqbal's legacy by serving Pakistan and humanity with the same relentless dedication. In a final note, he praised the organizers of the "Paigham-e-Pakistan" program for inspiring a renewed sense of patriotism and selfless devotion to the homeland in Pakistan's youth. Mr. Malik Muhammad Shafiq, Mr. Muhammad Ali Pasha an expert on Central, South East Asia and China and Ms. Fatima Tuz Zehra, Editor-in-Chief of "The Gulf Observer" also attended the seminar.

The seminar closed with a hopeful reminder: in Iqbal's philosophy lies a compass guiding every Pakistani toward a future of honor, integrity, and unity — a beacon lighting the path to a stronger, self-reliant Pakistan.

Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram was invited at the 'Victory Day Celebrations' of the Republic of Azerbaijan.

7 November 2024

On November 6, 2024, Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram was honored to be invited by His Excellency Khazar Farhadov, the Ambassador of the Republic of Azerbaijan to Pakistan, to attend the Victory Day celebrations of the Republic of Azerbaijan. This prestigious event commemorated the successful liberation of territories occupied during the Second Nagorno-Karabakh War, showcasing Azerbaijan's resilience and commitment to its sovereignty.

Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram participated as a Guest Speaker in the Seminar on “Iqbal Day” jointly organized by China Media Group in collaboration with Bahria Humanities and Social Sciences School, Bahria University, Islamabad

8 November 2024

On 8th November 2024, Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram, Executive Director, Pakistan Research Center for a Community with Shared Future (PRCCSF) participated as a guest speaker in Seminar on “Iqbal Day” jointly organized by China Media Group in collaboration with Bahria Humanities and Social Sciences School, Bahria University, Islamabad, highlighting the ongoing cultural ties and mutual respect between Pakistan and China. The seminar commenced with opening remarks from Ms. Jaining Du, Bureau Chief of the China Media Group's Islamabad Office, and Mr. Tasawwur Zaman, a Producer at CMG. They welcomed a diverse audience and expressed the significance of Iqbal Day, honoring the contributions of Allama Muhammad Iqbal, whose philosophical and poetic works continue to inspire generations in Pakistan and beyond.

Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram delivered a thought-provoking speech on "China-Pakistan Culture and Literary Relations." In his address, Mr. Akram underscored the deep-rooted cultural connections between the two nations, emphasizing how literature and artistic exchange can foster mutual understanding and strengthen bilateral relations.

Dr. Abdul Waheed Rana, an Assistant Professor at Bahria University, recited poems by Allama Iqbal. His recitation focused on themes of regional connectivity, reflecting Iqbal's vision of a united and progressive South Asia.

The atmosphere became even more vibrant when Mr. Waris performed a selection of poetry, celebrating Iqbal's enduring legacy through music. His rendition captivated attendees, providing a dynamic and emotional tribute to the poet-philosopher's ideas about self-discovery, empowerment, and community.

Concluding the seminar, Prof. Dr. Adam Saud, Principal of the Humanities and Social Sciences School at Bahria University, delivered the Vote of Thanks. He expressed gratitude to all the speakers and participants for their invaluable contributions, acknowledging the successful collaboration between CMG and Bahria University in hosting the event. Dr. Saud emphasized the importance of continuing dialogues like this seminar to promote cultural appreciation and scholarly exchange.

Overall, the seminar on Iqbal Day not only celebrated the profound contributions of Allama Iqbal but also reinforced the significance of cultural diplomacy between China and Pakistan, fostering an atmosphere of shared futures and collaborative growth.

US-China Relations Under President Trump's Second Term:

Mr. Khalid's Analysis on PTV World

16 November 2024

On 16 November 2024, Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram shared his insights in an exclusive interview on PTV World's program "PERSPECTIVE." He discussed the potential shifts in U.S. foreign policy following Donald Trump's election as president-elect, highlighting the consequent challenges and opportunities for Pakistan amid changing global dynamics. Mr. Akram emphasized that Pakistan is grappling with regional security threats, particularly from neighboring countries, which necessitate international cooperation. He pointed out that the Pakistani government aims to bolster its economy through strategic foreign policy focused on attracting foreign direct investment and enhancing trade relations with friendly nations, all while aligning its policies with national interests in the face of modern security challenges.

The interview further delved into the intricacies of U.S.-Pakistan relations, particularly under Trump's administration. Mr. Akram noted that the U.S. Indo-Pacific policy, which prioritizes India as a counterbalance to China, places Pakistan in a complex position, requiring alignment with U.S. interests. He highlighted the impact of potential tariffs on Pakistan's trade with America and underscored the dual-edged nature of increased counterterrorism pressures as both a challenge and an opportunity for collaboration against threats from Afghanistan.

US-China Relations Under President Trump's Second Term: Mr. Khalid's Analysis

on PTV World

18 November 2024

On November 18, 2024, in an engaging segment on the "VIEWS ON NEWS" program aired on PTV World, Mr. Khalid Taimur Akram explored the evolving dynamics of US-China relations, particularly in the context of President Trump's anticipated second term following his 2024 election victory. He emphasized that Trump's return to power could lead to a substantial shift in foreign policy, especially concerning stringent trade measures against China. Mr. Akram pointed out that Trump's proposals to impose tariffs ranging from 60% to 100% on key Chinese imports risk escalating trade tensions and provoking retaliatory measures from China. He highlighted significant issues at play, including unresolved trade agreements, Taiwan relations, and security concerns in contested areas, all of which create a complex backdrop for negotiations and diplomacy between the two nations.

SCO Promoting Economic Integration and Development in Eurasia

Published on 7 November 2024

<https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/SCO-in-Eurasia.pdf>

The Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO) is a key player in the Greater Eurasian micro-region, fostering comprehensive multilateral collaboration and maintaining regional security. With eight members, the SCO is a vital component of the Eurasian continent, based on common papers and vital necessity for regional engagement. The SCO, a transcontinental organization spanning from China to Russia, is crucial for preserving strategic stability on a global scale. It unites India, China, Russia, and Pakistan, half of the world's nuclear club, transferring sovereign prerogatives to supranational bureaucratic entities. Expectations are high that the SCO will play a more active role and yield measurable outcomes at a time when the globe is going through significant changes and the global economy is experiencing more volatility and uncertainty.

The SCO's initial conception was based on three main pillars: political and security collaboration, economic and trade cooperation, and the growth of cultural and humanitarian relationships. The development and prosperity of the peoples residing on its territory is the SCO's ultimate objective. The SCO member nations, with a significant market, mineral resources, and industrial base, have established strong economic relations due to ratified international agreements

China Positioned as a “Global Peacekeeper” following the BRICS Summit, 2024

Published on 8 November 2024

The 2024 BRICS summit is being held in Kazan, Russia, from Tuesday to Thursday (October 22 to 24, 2024). The BRICS summit provided a great opportunity for the world to understand the position of China as a “Global Peacekeeper”. China, with its commitment to creating a region free from fear of evils, has positioned itself as an advocate of regional peace and stability. China not only played a key role in the formation of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) but has also been significant in the establishment of BRICS. BRICS is an intergovernmental organization comprising of two states that are already permanent members of the United Nation Security Council (UNSC)_China and Russia_ and includes many other states such as Brazil, India, South Africa, Egypt, Ethiopia, Iran and the United Arab Emirates.

Together these nations cover 31 percent of the global land area. “Greater BRICS” together constitute about 46 percent of the world’s population and cover about 40 percent of the global energy landscape. In the Kazan Declaration issued at the 16th BRICS summit, the BRICS countries recapitulate the importance of the commitment to the peaceful resolution of disputes through the channels of negotiations, diplomacy, mediation, as well as their support for multilateral trading system in fostering peace. China, with its great diplomacy, has always emphasized the importance of mediation and dialogues in resolving disputes. China with its commitment to creating a peaceful region, has always valued the importance of hearing the consensus of other states. With its farsighted approach, BRICS offer a platform to the nations to adapt more stable and peaceful ways of resolving disputes. BRICS does not represent a hierarchical structure but provides a unique platform where all countries have equal rights despite cultural and religious variations. There is no domination of one power over others; all decisions are made through consensus and mutual understanding.

Integration Role of BRI in Kazakhstan

Published on 8 November 2024

<https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/Integration-Role-of-BRI-in-Kazakhstan.pdf>

This study investigates China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) and its implementation in Kazakhstan, focusing on the strategic implications and economic outcomes. Launched in 2013, BRI aims to establish six major economic corridors connecting China with neighbouring regions, including Mongolia and Russia, Eurasian countries, Central and West Asia, Pakistan, the Indian subcontinent, and Indo-China. Through its participation in BRI, Kazakhstan has attracted significant Chinese investments in infrastructure development, trade facilitation, and economic cooperation. The Chinese government launched the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) in 2013, a massive infrastructure development strategy to connect China with over 150 countries and 30 international organizations across Eurasia, Latin America, and Africa. This ambitious project encompasses nearly 75% of the global population and accounts for more than half of the world's GDP. Initially known as the "One Belt, One Road" (OBOR) initiative, BRI comprises two distinct projects: the "Belt" focuses on rebuilding historic overland trade routes between Europe and Asia, while the "Road" involves establishing a maritime Silk Road connecting China, Southeast Asia, Africa, and Europe. Kazakhstan, an upper-middle-income, resource-rich country and the world's ninth-largest landlocked nation, plays a crucial role in BRI due to its strategic location. Its total area coverage is 2,724,900 square kilometers. Bordering China to the east, Russia to the north, Kyrgyzstan and Uzbekistan to the south, and Iran, Kazakhstan facilitates connectivity between China and the West through key BRI routes.

Uzbekistan Parliamentary Elections 2024: Insights from an International Observer

<https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/Uzbekistan-Parliamentary-Elections-2024.pdf>

On October 27, 2024, Uzbekistan held elections for the Legislative Chamber of the Oliy Majlis and local kengashi under the slogan “My choice is—my prosperous homeland.” This election represented another milestone in Uzbekistan’s ongoing commitment to democratic reforms, civic engagement, and institutional growth. The enthusiasm for the democratic process was palpable, with a voter turnout of approximately 74.72%, reflecting the active participation of the people in shaping the country’s future. This significant turnout showcased Uzbekistan’s democratic spirit and determination to build a prosperous homeland. Notably, this election adopted a mixed electoral system, combining majoritarian (single-mandate constituency) and proportional (party lists) representation. This change allowed for more nuanced representation, with 75 deputies elected under each system to complete the 150 seats.

The 2024 parliamentary elections in Uzbekistan are a testament to the nation’s commitment to democratic growth. With enhanced transparency, inclusivity, and significant reforms, the country has demonstrated a strong dedication to international democratic standards. The involvement of youth and the increased representation of women are key indicators of a vibrant, inclusive political landscape. Uzbekistan has demonstrated a clear commitment to its people and the principles of democratic governance, setting a firm foundation for continued progress and stability.

Timeless Art of Chinese Calligraphy: A Cultural Treasure

Published on 17 November 2024

<https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/Timeless-Art-of-Chinese-Calligraphy.pdf>

In the era of digital communication, the ancient art of Chinese calligraphy holds an energetic reminder of the beauty and significance of traditional writing. Chinese calligraphy is more than just beautiful writing. Chinese calligraphy stands out as one of China's most significant art forms. This art form has an effective cultural and historical significance that developed with time. Interestingly, this remains an essential part of China's cultural legacy. Chinese calligraphy, known as "shūfǎ" (书法), is more than just writing; it is an art form that combines creativity, discipline, and spirituality. The practice started during the Shang Dynasty (1600–1046 BCE), where early characters were written on oracle bones used for future prediction. These writings mark the earliest form of Chinese writing and laid the foundation for the development of the language. Over the centuries, various styles emerged, each showing the artistic development of the language. The five main styles, Seal Script (篆书), Clerical Script (隶书), Regular Script (楷书), Running Script (行书), and Cursive Script (草书) each have their own characteristics and historical significance. To create beautiful calligraphy, artists depend on a set of traditional tools known as the "Four Treasures of the Study": the brush (毛笔), ink (墨), paper (纸), and inkstone (砚). Each tool plays a crucial role in the calligraphy process. The brush typically made from animal hair, Ink is traditionally made from grinding ink sticks on an inkstone with water, resulting in a rich and deep color that increases the beauty of the characters. The choice of paper can significantly affect the final appearance of the work.

The Role of Chinese Companies in Reshaping Pakistan's Power Sector

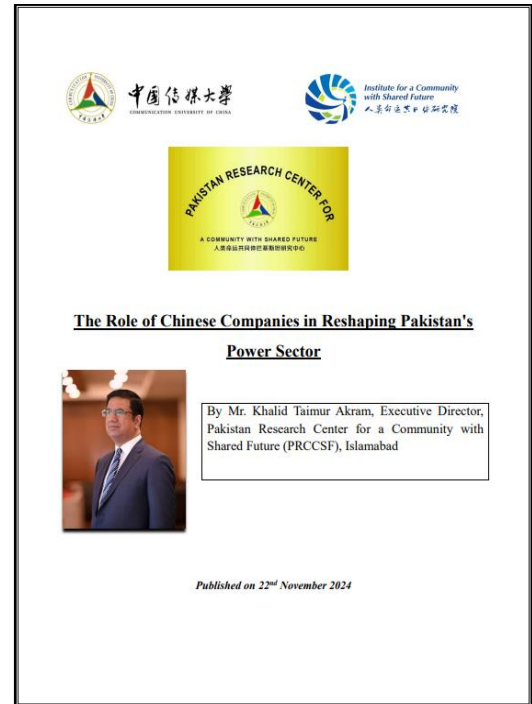

Published on 22 November 2024

<https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/Chinese-Companies-Reshaped-the-Power-Sector-in-Pakistan.pdf>

For decades, Pakistan grappled with severe energy shortages that stunted economic progress and hampered industrial productivity. With a staggering $35 billion allocated to energy projects under the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC), Chinese companies have played a pivotal role in addressing Pakistan's energy crisis, creating a brighter and more sustainable future for the nation.

Hydropower projects will be transferred to provincial governments free of cost after 30 years of operation, ensuring long-term energy stability. The revival of local industries due to reliable energy supply has spurred economic development. Approved tariffs are expected to drop by half after 10–12 years of operations, reducing the financial burden on the national economy. Thousands of direct and indirect jobs have been created during the construction and operational phases of these projects. 8 www.prccsf.com China's unwavering dedication has illuminated the path of China-Pakistan cooperation, not only ensuring the success of various transformative projects but also strengthening the bonds of friendship between the two nations. These efforts embody the true spirit of China-Pakistan unity, playing a pivotal role in shaping the future of Pakistan's power sector. The invaluable contributions of this partnership will forever be cherished, serving as a lasting legacy that inspires perseverance, resilience, and collaborative efforts to create a brighter and more sustainable future for Pakistan's energy landscape.

President Shavkat Mirziyoyev's Aspiring Goals for Uzbekistan's Growth

At the first session of the Legislative Chamber of Uzbekistan, President Shavkat Mirziyoyev presented a comprehensive evaluation of the government's achievements over the past five years and unveiled a detailed vision for the next five. This session followed the parliamentary elections, the nomination of Abdulla Aripov as Prime Minister, and the introduction of an action plan for the Cabinet of Ministers for the upcoming five years. The president began his address by acknowledging the growing responsibilities of the government. He emphasized that current global and domestic complexities demand unprecedented commitment from all levels of the executive branch. With new powers and responsibilities outlined in the updated Constitution, the government is tasked with addressing important areas such as poverty reduction, food security, investment attraction, and environmental sustainability. He stressed that citizens expect tangible outcomes in these domains from the new administration.

The aspiring five-year agenda addresses immediate challenges while setting the stage for long-term prosperity. While achieving these goals will require coordinated efforts and effective implementation, the roadmap reflects Mirziyoyev's vision of a prosperous, equitable, and forward-looking Uzbekistan. As the new government embarks on this transformative journey, the collective effort of all stakeholders will be crucial in realizing the nation's aspirations.

Strategic Importance of Caspian Sea and The Great Silk Route

Published on 27 November 2024

<https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/Strategic-Importance-of-Caspian-Sea-and-The-Great-Silk-Route.pdf>

The Caspian Sea and the Silk Road are important trade routes that affect the geopolitical dynamics and trade of the region. The Caspian Sea borders five countries Azerbaijan, Iran, Kazakhstan, Russia, and Turkmenistan. It is a major hub for energy, especially oil and gas. Its massive investment has attracted international attention by bringing investment and infrastructure, increasing energy exports to Europe and Asia, and improving regional connectivity and electricity security. The Silk Road is an ancient trade route connecting East Asia and Europe, promoting cultural and economic exchange. From a contemporary perspective, it has been reformed by projects such as China's Belt and Road Initiative, which aims to promote economic connectivity and infrastructure development in Central Asia, the Middle East and beyond. The Silk Road not only promotes trade, but also fosters good relations between participating countries and encourages cooperation in various areas such as transportation, technology policies and business.

In the ultimate analysis, the Caspian Sea and the Great Silk Route underline the growing importance of link in the global economy in determining the shape of future trade, energy, and diplomacy. With global connectivity unfolding, the Caspian region is a focal area both for economic and strategic developments in Eurasia.

Pakistan Welcomes Brother Aleksandr Lukashenko

Published on 29 November 2024

<https://prccsf.com/paper/pdf/Pakistan-Welcomes-Brother-Aleksandr-Lukashenko.pdf>

The historic visit marked a new chapter in Pakistan-Belarus relations as the two countries reinforced their commitment to fostering cooperation across various sectors, including trade, economy, culture, and technology. Belarus President His Excellency Aleksandr Lukashenko paid an official visit to Pakistan from 25-27 November 2024, at the invitation of Prime Minister Muhammad Shehbaz Sharif. This visit marked a significant milestone in the bilateral relationship between the two nations as they celebrated 30 years of diplomatic ties. The three-day visit witnessed a beginning with delegation-level talks that covered an extensive range of topics, from trade and economic cooperation to cultural and scientific exchanges. Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif and H.E President Lukashenko signed 15 agreements and memoranda of understanding (MoUs), aimed at fostering collaboration in sectors such as trade, e-commerce, the environment, health, vocational training, and halal trade. Notably, the signing ceremony included an extradition treaty, further solidifying legal frameworks for cooperation.

The historic visit of His Excellency President Aleksandr Lukashenko to Pakistan marks a turning point in bilateral relations. As Pakistan and Belarus move forward, their evolving partnership promises mutual benefits and contributions to regional and global development. The visit not only celebrated three decades of friendship but also laid the groundwork for a vibrant and enduring relationship between the two nations. During his visit, Pakistan termed him as a brother and great friend of Pakistan.
